

Natural Leather is a treasure.

On chairs upholstered in Unprotected Natural Aniline Leather, you can expect subtle to obvious color variances from panel to panel. Because every hide of Natural Leather is unique, your chair will not exactly match any leather swatch.

Underlying leather's elegant look and its sensuous feel on the fingertips is an age-old tanning process that preserves and highlights leather's natural beauty.

The Unprotected Natural Aniline Leathers in Lifeform's collection have been tanned with the finest aniline dyes, waxes and oils. Their full, rich grains, soft, natural texture and dramatic pull-up effect uphold the individual beauty of every Lifeform chair.

In every way – its uplifting natural aroma, its buttery texture, its distinctive appearance – fine leather delights the senses.
